WORLD'S NEWS DAILY.HUNTING
FOR NEWSAn Elusive Item Has Strings All Over the Island.

The Advertiser wanted to get a story last night from a man who was held in the station house. It wanted the information badly, for the man in custody was a sailor from the bark James Nesmith, held as witness in the case of the death of a sailor named Eidman, who had fallen from the ship's rail to the wharf yesterday morning.

Permission was asked of the receiving clerk to see the sailor.
"You'll have to see Captain Kananae," was the response. "He's outside."

Captain Kananae was found on the sidewalk leaning against a telegraph pole. The same request was put to the captain. He smiled.

"Oh, you'll have to see the receiving clerk about that—I've nothing to do with it."

The reporter trotted back to the receiving clerk.

"The captain says it's up to you," said the reporter. "The story I'm after has nothing whatever to do with this case."

"I've got nothing to do with it," was the clerk's answer. "You might see Lieut. Leslie," came on the winds as the reporter reached the vicinity of the post-office.

From the Advertiser office the reporter called up the police station and asked for Leslie. He answered. No, he couldn't give permission. The reporter would have to see the Deputy Sheriff, Jack Kalakia.

Recourse to the telephone central elicited the information that Kalakia had no telephone. Assistant Sheriff Henry Vida was next tried. Some one at his house said that Mr. Vida had gone to Waialua for the day. The reporter might ring up Andrew Cox down there. A perusal of the pages of the telephone book revealed the fact that Andrew Cox was not a telephone subscriber.

Last of all, Sheriff Brown was rung up. No, he was not in the city. He had gone to Waianae. Deputy Sheriff Chris. Holt's house was rung up. The reporter was informed from there that the Sheriff had gone to Waianae, possibly to catch a train. Waianae court-house was tried with no better success.

And so the police kept the mystery under lock and key—although a reporter will occasionally enter where an angel would fear to tread, entrance was not gained to the particular cell in which the carefully guarded witness was held.

And people wonders at times why the papers don't get all the news.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY, THERAPIOL.

This successful and popular remedy, used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert, Velpeau, and others, combines all the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind, and surpasses everything hitherto employed.

THERAPIOL NO. 1 maintains its world-renowned and well-merited reputation for the treatment of the kidneys, pains in the back, and kindred ailments, affording prompt relief where other well-tried remedies have been powerless.

THERAPIOL NO. 2 for impurity of the blood, scurvy, pimples, spots, blotches, pain and swelling of joints, gout, rheumatism, and all diseases for which it has been too much a fashion to employ mercury, saraparilla, etc., to the destruction of sufferer's teeth and ruin of health. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood, and thoroughly eliminates all poisonous matter from the body.

THERAPIOL NO. 3 for exhaustion, sleeplessness, and all distressing consequences of dissipation, worry, overwork, etc. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigor to those suffering from the overtaxing influences of long residence in hot, unhealthy climates.

THERAPIOL is sold by the principal Chemists and Merchants throughout the world. Price in England, 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. In order to state which number is required, and observe that the word "Therapiol" appears on the British Government Stamp (in white letters on a black ground) affixed to every genuine package by order of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners, and without which it is a forgery.

AT VOLCANO
LAST WEEKBirthday Party—Guests
From Mainland and Territory.

VOLCANO HOUSE, August 18.—An attraction at the Volcano House the past week was a party in honor of Miss Hazel Buckland's eleventh birthday. Music was furnished and dancing enjoyed until a late hour. The parlors were artistically decorated with ferns and flowers. The birthday cake garnished with icing and native berries was a triumph of Chef Frendo's skill. The honor of cutting the cake fell to Mrs. E. F. Gregg. Punchbowls filled with delicious lemonade refreshed the dancers during the evening. Miss Hazel received the congratulatory of all present, as well as wireless messages from Honolulu. The evening was a jolly one and will long linger in the memory of those fortunate enough to be present.

The volcano is still doing great things at the old stand for the benefit of the guests.

Following is the register of visitors for the past week: Mm. McKay and wife, Miss Duseky, J. J. Dower, A. J. Gornes, J. D. Easton, Miss Anna Victor, Miss Emelia Victor, Miss Helen Watson, Hilo; Mrs. A. F. Linden, Mrs. M. Mahlum, Hilea, Kau; J. E. Metcalf and wife, Papaikou; F. H. Hayselden, Jr., W. H. Hayselden, Kau; W. AN AWFUL
PROBLEMTo Keep Yellow Fever
Away From Asia.

NEW YORK, August 6.—Sir Patrick Manson, who is at the head of the London School of Tropical Medicine and medical adviser to the British Colonial Office, is at the Holland House here on the way to San Francisco to deliver a Lane lecture before the Cooper Medical College in that city. He said today:

"The Panama situation is the biggest medical problem of the age. It is not a question of ridding the place of mosquitoes and making it as healthy as possible just while the canal is being built. It is a far bigger question than that. When the canal is completed the current of commerce will be changed, and unless permanent measures are taken there will be great danger of introducing yellow fever in Asia. Yellow fever in Asia is absolutely unknown, but all the conditions are there. The world would shudder at the consequences. This is the greatest load of responsibility placed on the shoulders of the United States."

WHO WAS THE LAWYER?

The following instrument purporting to be a lease was signed by two residents of Maui, and the terms have been faithfully kept:

.....January 1902.
.....give his land to make to for half. I don't stay here but he must take care from the land just like me. The land of bananas he take for half until I don't come back, and the trees, he must take care of them, and water them when they need. The road in front of the house, I gave business to my neighbor the passing, until they make no harm, but if they make harm, I gave business to to shut the road. And they must pass at the head of the land their own road the ditch. He must let tie no horses on the land and give no water from the land to nobody. At the catching of the taro to the other time of the catching again, and selling the taro for the highest that can be, he must tell me when he sell, and give me half of the coast.

Signed.....
Signed.....

This lease was offered to a party, a friend of one of the signers to be filed, but there is no registrar's endorsement to show that it has been properly recorded, which is not at all surprising.

JAS. F. MORGAN,
AUCTIONEER.NORVAL MACGREGOR
PLAYS IN LOS ANGELES

Theater goers here will have occasion to remember Norval MacGregor who played here several years ago as leading man with Janet Waldorf. He is now playing in Southern California. The Sunset of August has the following to say of his work:

Norval MacGregor, who is playing leading parts in the Angelus Stock Company at the new Angelus theater in Los Angeles, is one of the most promising of western leading men. Mr. MacGregor's home is at San Jose, California, and he has always been more or less intimately connected with Californian theatrical enterprise, though late years have seen him wandering far in the pursuit of his profession.

Six years ago, MacGregor became associated with Mrs. Ada Dow Currier, who, after some years of preliminary training, was about to exploit Janet Waldorf as she had before successfully launched Julia Marlowe. A profitable western tour from St. Paul to the Pacific extended across seas to Honolulu, thence to Japan, along the road to Mandalay and through India. Mr. MacGregor playing with marked appreciation the roles of Romeo, Orlando, Benedict, Malvolto, Ingomar, Pygmalion, Claude Melnotte, Armand, the title role in Sheridan's "Hunchback" and Napoleon in the "Royal Divorce." Such roles, with the undoubted value of Ada Dow Currier's stage management and the inevitable polish acquired by travel, brought MacGregor back to California a finished and forceful actor.

McKee Rankin was quick to note the marked ability of the fresh arrival and engaged him to play the leads with Nance O'Neil during her successful season in the east. Boston critics were kind to MacGregor and gave him a liberal share in the appreciation bestowed upon the company. Several flattering offers followed for the next season, but the call of California drew him back to his western home. Mr. MacGregor is loyal to the west and a satisfactory coast engagement is to him as to many others, the chief good of his wishes. He possesses, not merely the technical attributes of the finished and experienced actor, but that rarer faculty of choosing the true dramatic climax with the yet rarer quality of personal magnetism. He has an excellent appearance and is sympathetic and susceptible of temperament, with a fine and well-trained voice.
